PERSONAL STATEMENT

Since I was a young girl, soccer has always been a huge part of my life. It is a game that builds character and teaches life lessons such as hard work and teamwork that can be applied both on and off the field. I believe my years of soccer experience have shaped the person that I have become today. As a coach, I believe it is important to develop one's soccer skills but I also believe it is equally, if not more, important to build and develop as a person. My goal as a coach is to create an environment that fosters creativity, passion and love for the game, and respect for one's self and each other.
