PERSONAL STATEMENT

My Philosophy is to share the love and passion of the game that I grew up with ever since I was a little kid and all the knowledge that I'm acquiring through coaching courses and clinics. To open the minds of players that soccer is not just a sport, but a teacher of life, that teaches us discipline, hardworking, determination, concentration, attention. It brings people together from different parts of the world, both players themselves and the fans.

To make players realize that in a game of soccer everything happens in seconds. That is: winning the ball, losing the ball, passing ball, dribbling, scoring, and conceding goal and everything. The game needs quick thinking. And most of all, soccer is about having fun and play with joy and happiness not with hatred.
